BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Rhonda Brown shares a message of encouragement and hope with vibrant candor and a touch of humor that reveals a true passion to connect with people at a heartfelt level. She speaks with transparency, relevance and aspires for women to find their significance and true identity in Christ. Her love for prayer is a lifestyle commitment and she believes that deliverance, revelation and favor are an outgrowth of this prayer posture. Family values infuse her life and she has an ardent desire to see the potential of our children be maximized through caring and devoted parenting.

Rhonda was raised in Northern Ohio and is married to Timothy E. Brown who is the State Administrative Bishop for the Church of God in the Rocky Mountain Region. They reside in the Denver, Colorado area. Tim and Rhonda have served in evangelism and have a wealth of experience in pastoral ministry. She is very active in RED, a discipleship and mentoring program she has written and is implementing for women. Rhonda's interests are hiking, reading, traveling, cooking new recipes, and visiting with great friends (especially over really good coffee!)

Rhonda holds a Masters degree in Community/Agency Counseling the University of Alabama at Birmingham and she graduated from Lee University in Cleveland, Tennessee with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology. Rhonda has two sons: Brock and Brandon.
